Dear Customer

We thank Goodness 2020 is in the rearview mirror. Pandemic began and so did a surge in the product demand of what we sell and provide to you. Everything about burning a fire at home was good plus we added some outdoor heating products see Page 4 for an update.

We continue to source and provide products that are in high and growing demand plus some cool stuff that we have not had in the past see Page 87 for Self-Feeding Cast Iron Grates.

Our photo is from just recently on Easter Sunday. As always we appreciate your business and friendship.

The diagram on the left illustrates how the convertible orifice operates. The arrow shows the direction of the gas flow. The diameter is 2.5 MM, and the BTU is approximately 78,000 (NFPA-11). There are six small holes around the center hole. The six outer holes are used to add air for operation with liquid propane (LP). The orifice is converted to LP when the holes are exposed by backing down the washer nut (included) to expose the six holes. It is set for natural gas when the washer is tightened to cover the six holes. MUST NOT BE OPERATED CLOSER THAN 6" FROM AN OPEN FLAME.

*EACH OF THE 6 HOLES ALONG WITH THE CENTER HOLE HAS AN AREA OF 4.09 SQUARE MM.

Media such as (i.e. lava rock, lava stones, lava boulders) has the potential of thermal spalling. This is a process that may occur when media is wet and moisture gets trapped inside of the material due to rapid temperature differences. When this happens the media has the potential to crack or "pop" outside the fire feature.

WE HIGHLY RECOMMEND COVERING ALL FIRE FEATURES WHEN NOT IN USE

The use of a cover can lessen the impact of thermal spalling; however, heavy rains, high humidity and the presence of moisture may still cause the media to pop.

ALWAYS USE CAUTION WHEN USING THE FIRE FEATURE

Extra caution should be taken when lighting a fire feature when heavy rains, high humidity and moisture are present. Light the fire feature; leave the area allowing any moisture in the media to dissipate. We strongly recommend that during this drying out time that you monitor the fire feature from a distance. This drying out period should be no less than 30 minutes. Continue monitoring the flame from distance to ensure that all popping has ceased before fully enjoying the fire.
